DRAFT

11 Dear Mr. Borron:

12 This responds to your letters dated February 6, 19, and 23 and April 1 and 13, 2004,
13 on behalf of the American Sugar Cane League ("ASCL") requesting an advisory opinion 14 concerning the application of the Federal Election Campaign Act of 1971, as amended ("the 15 Act"), and Commission regulations to ASCL's proposed granting of a severance benefits
16 package to a former employee who recently resigned his position in order to become a 17 Federal candidate.

18 Background

19 ASCL is a Louisiana non-profit corporation representing Louisiana sugar cane 20 growers and processors. ASCL currently employs five people. Your request indicates that 21 on February 20, 2004, ASCL's President and General Manager, Charles Melancon,¹
22 resigned in order to become a candidate for the U.S. House of Representatives. You state 23 that Mr. Melancon had been in that position for approximately 11 years at the time of his 24 resignation. ASCL proposes a severance package for Mr. Melancon of full salary for a

1 period of six months to one year with the continuation of his health insurance coverage for 2 that period.

3 You state that ASCL began the practice of offering severance benefits in 1987.
4 ASCL has no written policy regarding severance packages for former employees, and no
5 formula for the calculation of the benefits to be granted. ASCL does not have a written 6 employee handbook and none of its employees, including Mr. Melancon, has a written 7 employment agreement. You state that the factors considered in deciding whether to grant

8 a severance package to a former employee and the timing of such payment (1) did not

1 computer, the option of purchasing his company owned car for "Blue Book" value, and 2 ASCL paid for his previously scheduled speaking engagement trip to Australia.

3 You state that only three other employees have left ASCL since 1987. These three 4 former employees did not receive a severance package of any kind. One former employee
5 retired at age 66 and received retirement benefits from ASCL. The other two employees
6 were each employed for less than one year. You state that one of these two employees, a 7 Vice President and General Manager for 11 months, was discharged for cause, but you do 8 not state the circumstances surrounding the departure of the third employee who did not 9 receive a severance benefit.

10 You also explain that the 2001 termination of the former Vice President and 11 Director of Research caused serious controversy and divisiveness within the ASCL, 12 including the refusal of some members to pay their dues in protest of the action. At that 13 time, Mr. Melancon, who had proposed the termination, discussed with a select number of

1 in 2001. You state that the Board would have mostly likely voted favorably if presented 2 with this severance package proposal sponsored by these past Board members in 2001.

3 You state that the severance package now proposed by ASCL (six months to one 4 year's salary with health benefits) is the same package that these individual board members
5 agreed to propose had Mr. Melancon resigned in 2001. The comments of past and present
6 Board members state that the severance package is a continuation of these earlier 7 discussions and the scope of the package is not related to what Mr. Melancon might do after 8 resignation from ASCL.

9 Question Presented

10 May ASCL provide its former President and General Manager severance pay and 11 health insurance benefits for six months to a year without violating the Act's prohibition on 12 contributions by corporations?

13 Legal Analysis and Conclusions

14 Yes, ASCL may provide the proposed severance package without violating the 15 Act's ban on corporate contributions to candidates.

16 ASCL is an incorporated entity and is therefore prohibited from making any 17 "contribution or expenditure" in connection with a Federal election. 2 U.S.C. 441b(a); 11
18 CFR 114.2(b)(1). The term "contribution" is defined in the Act to include "any gift, loan, 19 advance, or deposit of money or anything of value made by any person for the purpose of 20 influencing any election for Federal office." 2 U.S.C. 431(8)(A). Thus, ASCL may only 21 provide Mr. Melancon with the proposed severance package if it does not constitute a 22 contribution under the Act or Commission regulations.

23 The Act also prohibits the conversion of campaign funds to any "personal use."

2 U.S.C. 439a. Under the Commission regulations implementing this section of the Act, a third party's payment of a candidate's expenses that would otherwise be deemed "personal use" expenses under 439a(b)(2) is considered a contribution by the third party unless the payment would have been made "irrespective of the candidacy." 11 CFR 113.1(g)(6). The regulations further provide that certain types of employment-related compensation are considered to be payments made "irrespective of the candidacy:"

(iii) Payments for that expense were made by the person making the payment before the candidate became a candidate. Payments that are compensation shall be considered contributions unless –

(A) The compensation results from bona fide employment that is genuinely independent of the candidacy;

(B) The compensation is exclusively in consideration of services provided by the employee as a part of this employment; and

(C) The compensation does not exceed the amount of compensation which would be paid to any other similarly qualified person for the same work over the same period of time.

11 CFR 113.1(g)(6)(iii). If ASCL's proposed severance package satisfies the three criteria in 11 CFR 113.1(g)(6)(iii)(A), (B), and (C), the payments would not be considered contributions pursuant to this section, and ASCL would, thus, not be deemed to have made a corporate contribution.

Under these regulations, any severance package provided to Mr. Melancon must first be tied exclusively to services provided by him as a part of his bona fide employment.

11 CFR 113.1(g)(6)(iii)(A) and (B). The history of the ASCL severance program fairly

1 demonstrates that since 1987, ASCL has a regular business practice of providing severance
2 packages to departing long-term executives and employees. According to your information
3 regarding former ASCL employees, 4 out of the 7 former employees who have terminated
4 employment with ASCL since the severance policy was instituted in 1987 received some 5 type of severance package. ASCL's stated factors used in deciding whether to offer a 6 severance package include relatively objective considerations, such as "job performance," 7 position, and length of service. ASCL has a sufficient corporate record of providing 8 severance packages to departing employees that the Commission concludes that the 9 payment of a severance package to Mr. Melancon would be tied exclusively to services
10 rendered in his bona fide employment with ASCL. 11 CFR 113.1(g)(6)(iii)(A) and (B).

11 Under the third prong of the "irrespective of the candidacy test," ASCL must 12 demonstrate that the severance benefits package offered to Mr. Melancon "does not exceed 13 the amount of compensation which would be paid to any other similarly qualified person
14 for the same work over the same period of time" as required by 11 CFR 113.1(g)(6)(iii)(C).
15 Certain board members in 2001, and the full board in 2004, considered the tenure and 16 service of Mr. Melancon and deemed that his employment with ASCL was most 17 comparable to the most recently departed executive, the former Vice-President with 24 18 years of service who received one-year pay with benefits. The fact that Mr. Melancon was 19 not offered the full range of fringe benefits accorded to the former Vice-President is 20 reflective of his shorter 11-year tenure with the organization. Thus, the current proposed 21 severance package is proportionate with the past severance packages offered by the ASCL.

22 Given the nature of organizations as small as ASCL, the lack of a written severance
23 policy and the existence of some Board discretion in determining the size and scope of a

1 severance package are not fatal to the conclusion that the proposed severance package is 2 compensation “irrespective of the candidacy.” In Advisory Opinion 2000-1, the 3 Commission determined that a proposal for partial paid leave would not be considered 4 compensation “irrespective of the candidacy” because the decision to grant a request for 5 partial paid leave was “solely in the discretion of the firm” and based on factors not 6 exclusively tied to services provided by the employee, including the nature of the proposed 7 outside activity, and its benefit to the firm overall. In contrast, ASCL’s determination of 8 whether or not to offer severance benefits, although discretionary in part, focuses on factors
9 related solely to the employee’s services at ASCL (length of service, position, job 10 performance). Moreover, the fact that a severance package of similar size to the current 11 proposal was discussed with influential board members in 2001 when there was no prospect
12 of Mr. Melancon’s future status as a Federal candidate is additional evidence that ASCL’s 13 proposed package is compensation “irrespective of the candidacy.”

14 Because the severance package is sufficiently tied to past employment services by 15 Mr. Melancon and is reasonably construed as comparable to the compensation that would 16 be offered to a similarly qualified ASCL executive, the proposed severance package meets 17 the requirements of 11 CFR 113.1(g)(6)(iii). Thus, the provision of this package would not 18 be a prohibited corporate contribution under the Act and the Commissions regulations.

19 This response constitutes an advisory opinion concerning the application of the Act
20 and Commission regulations to the specific transaction or activity set forth in your request.
21 See 2 U.S.C. 437f. The Commission emphasizes that, if there is a change in any of the facts
22 or assumptions presented, and such facts or assumptions are material to a conclusion

1 presented in this advisory opinion, then the requestor may not rely on that conclusion as 2 support for its proposed activity.
